

External Sources of Information

Foreword

The idea behind this document is simply to share high quality contents that are accessible for free on internet about guitar, music theory and other music related contents. Since I have been interested in music for a while now I have had the chance to explore and discover great music advocates and teachers.

Most of the links provided are YouTube channels but there are also websites. Most of (maybe all of it) the contents shared lead to free accessible content. So just feel free to check out some of them if you have time or are interested in a specific topic.

Signals Music Studio

I simply can not begin this list with somebody else than the american guy named Jake Lizzio. He maintained a YouTube channel called Signals Music Studio with super high quality about guitar playing and music theory applied on guitar. He have made plenty of videos on so many subjects. You will find at least one that you will find interesting !

If you had one guy to remember I would recommend him without hesitation.

He also has a website that offers great guitar lessons on different subjects. Here are the links : YouTube channel and Website.

Paul Davids

Paul Davids is an inspiring guitar teacher from Netherlands. He is a passionate guitar player and an excellent guitar teacher. He produces videos on very different topics so you will find at least one (but surely more) video that is interesting for you.

He really takes his time to explain concepts and he takes care about pedagogy ; the way to teach things in the most cool and interesting way. You should definitely check out his work. Here is his YouTube channel.

Steve Stine

Steve Stine is known as the world's most sought-after guitar instructor. After years of struggling to understand how the guitar "really works," he developed a step-by-step training method to help guitarists quickly overcome obstacles and rapidly advance their playing to a level they never dreamed possible. He has created over 40 full length guitar courses and Masterclasses for Guitarzoom, and literally hundreds (if not thousands) of instructional videos on various social media and guitar-related channels. To put it simply he is an top-notch guitar teacher : both for music theory and to help you practicing guitar with exercises. Here is his YouTube channel and his Website.

Rick Beato

Rick Beato is an American YouTube personality, musician, multi-instrumentalist, music producer and educator. Beato's YouTube videos about music regularly get over one million views. Since the early 1980s, he has worked variously as a musician, songwriter, audio engineer, and record producer, and has lectured on music at several universities. Here is his YouTube channel and is Website where you can buy his book one music theory book and online courses.

Samurai Guitarist

This guy is a great guitarist and he always tries to go out of his comfort zone by exploring new concepts that he loves to share on the internet. He made plenty of videos very different subjects. He is also very dedicated into teaching guitar with music theory which he does great. It is a great place to find guitar exercises too. Here is his YouTube channel.

Music is Win

Music is Win is a channel dedicated into teaching guitar playing. The guy is a great player himself. The subjects of his videos are diverse on all guitar styles, you will find content interesting for you for sure, especially for practicing on your guitar or to find exercises. Here is his YouTube channel.

Jens Larsen

Jens Larsen is a professional Jazz guitarist and he takes some of its spare to share some of its knowledge for free on YouTube which is just insane. His videos are so informative, original and rare we should pay for it ! Finding good jazz guitar teachers can be complicated, but trust me one this one : if you wish to learn jazz just go on his channel. Here is its YouTube channel.

Music Theory for Guitar

A great guitar teacher that takes some of his time to explain music theory concepts for guitar players. He made me discover music theory concepts I did not know the existence before. Here is his YouTube channel.

Gene Caberra

He is R&B, Rock, Blues, Neo-Soul guitar player. I simply just love his videos because it is really rare to find content about Neo-Soul guitar lessons. He is not that well known nevertheless he is greatly inspiring for me so I just want to include him in this list. Here is its YouTube channel and his Website.

Jeronimo de Carmen

This man is dedicated to teaching la guitarra flamenca. He has more than 25 years experience in this domain. He will be a great teacher if you want to start learning to play spanish musics style. Here is his YouTube channel.

Adam Neely

Adam Neely is a bass guitar player. Why is he in this list ? Simply because his online content is simply of insanely high quality. He generally focus on music theory so if you have some questions you might find stupid about music theory he may have the answer for you. Here is his YouTube channel.

12tone

If you like drawings, elephants and music theory you are at the right place. He creates original videos by drawing on a sheet of paper to explain advanced music theory concepts. Here is his YouTube channel.

DIME Group - Music Course, Classes & Programs

I just want to share this channel because in here you can find some interview and short courses from Guthrie Govan. I just love this guy, he could talk hours about music without being boring. He talks about music the way a philosopher would talk about life. If you don't know him then take a look at the channel. He is a prodigy of guitar and has such a unique approach when it comes to teaching music. Here is the YouTube channel.